FREE Parent/Professional Workshop Series

Classroom Survival Skills for Parents and Teachers

Date: October 9, 2014 New Date

Presenter: Fern Goldstein, Recipient of LDA America's Sam Kirk Teacher of the Year Award

Time: 7:00–8:30 P.M.

As parents and teachers, we each struggle with our students' lack of organizational skills, sometimes more than they do. Frustration builds and arguments frequently erupt.

But there is hope!

This workshop will provide participants an understanding of the problems students with learning disabilities face in the classroom and at home when charged with academic tasks, household chores, and other responsibilities. The role of executive function will be discussed and techniques for mastering time management and completing tasks will be presented. The presentation will include a Q&A period.

Fern Goldstein holds a bachelor's degree in Speech Pathology and Audiology from SUNY Albany and a master's degree from Adelphi University in Special Education. She presently teaches high school English for students with learning disabilities, and is also the parent of a young adult with learning disabilities.

Workshops will be held at the
