

TRINITAS REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER
STATEWIDE CLINICAL OUTREACH PROGRAM FOR THE ELDERLY IN COLLABORATION WITH THE NEW JERSEY INSTITUTE OF SUCCESSFUL AGING (NJISA) & Rowan University
School of Osteopathic Medicine

PRESENT:

“Nonpharmacological Management of Behavioral and Psychiatric Symptoms of Dementia”

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Behavioral and psychiatric symptoms of dementia (BPSD), such as agitation, aggression and psychotic disturbances are often reported in the elderly. Nonpharmacologic management is recommended as a first line treatment to decrease the frequency of these challenging behaviors and improve quality of life for nursing facility residents. During this presentation, the common behavioral and psychiatric symptoms and strategies for selecting evidence-based nonpharmacologic dementia treatments will be reviewed.

Presenters: Deborah Klasky, MSN, APN, C; and Lucille Esralew, Ph.D., Clinical Administrator S-Cope
