

On November 20th, experience dyslexia.

Dyslexia: Making It Personal An interactive simulation

Thursday, November 20th from 7 to 9 pm

FREE event open to parents, caregivers, teachers and administrators

DYSLEXIA: MAKING IT PERSONAL shows you what it's like to have dyslexia. Designed for teachers, administrators and parents, this interactive simulation gives you firsthand knowledge about the challenges and frustrations faced by people with this language-based learning difference. You'll experience what dyslexia is like — and understand it like never before.

»» November 20, 2014 from 7 – 9 pm

»» Community Services Building, First Floor Auditorium

327 East Ridgewood Avenue, Paramus, NJ 07652

For GPS directions, use 333 East Ridgewood Avenue, Paramus

Space is limited for this free event, so register now at learningally.org/bergen

Questions? Call Mark Brugger at 609.520.7984

or mBrugger@LearningAlly.org.

Learning Ally is a national nonprofit with a defined approach to reading, learning and success — for students and their families managing dyslexia and other reading disabilities.

Copyright, Northern California Branch of The International Dyslexia Association

*People with dyslexia have a lot of challenges.
And a lot of resilience.*

Learning Ally »»
LearningAlly.org